

The Scholarship for Leadership

Helping Talented Young People Achieve Their Dreams
Submission Deadline: May 11, 2023

Huang Leadership Development Scholarship A Fund of Greater Horizons

The Huang Leadership Development Scholarship was established by Bob and Lily Huang in appreciation of TD SYNEX co-workers all over the world, past and present. Bob, the Founder, former CEO & Chairman of the Board of SYNEX Corporation, and his wife Lily wish to recognize those who contributed to the success of TD SYNEX by offering scholarship opportunities to associates and their families who pursue personal leadership development through higher education.

Bob's vision of leadership includes mentoring the many co-workers he has worked with since founding SYNEX in 1980. As SYNEX grew into a TD SYNEX global enterprise, countless careers were launched along the way. This spirit of leadership that uplifts entire communities is the lasting TD SYNEX legacy that has inspired his scholarship program.

Bob and Lily hope to support the next generation of leaders in entrepreneurship, sciences, humanities and the arts. Scholarship recipients will be selected based on academic achievement excellence and leadership qualities as evidenced by their personal statement, letters of reference, and community involvement.

Mr. Huang holds a bachelor's in electrical engineering from Kyushu University, Fukuoka, Japan, a master's in electrical engineering and statistics from the University of Rochester, NY, a master's in management science from the Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and an honorary doctorate degree from Kyushu University. He was elected by Computer Reseller News as one of the 25 most influential executives in computer industries and inducted to CRN's Industry Hall of Fame in November of 2004.

Mr. Huang serves on the Advisory Board of Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is a Kyushu Fellow, and contributed to the founding of Kyushu University Robert T. Huang Entrepreneurship Center (QREC). The Huang Leadership Development Scholarship Fund was established through a generous gift from Bob and Lily Huang. Since 2011, the Huang Leadership Development Scholarship program has awarded more than $1,000,000 USD to help lessen the impact of rising tuition costs for students who will go on to achieve great things! TD SYNEX Corporation also matches the Huang Family contributions each year.

How to Apply

Required Supporting Documents and Guidelines

In addition to the application form, you are required to submit the following supporting documents to be considered for the Huang Leadership Development Scholarship:

1. Personal Statement

Your personal statement must be 500-850 words and must address the following prompts:

- Describe yourself to the scholarship committee, your short and long-range goals and highlight your academic accomplishments.
- Share with the committee the leadership qualities you feel you possess and describe events or activities in which you have demonstrated excellence in leadership.
- Reflect on your personal journey (significant accomplishments, challenges and/or hardships) and any life lessons, discuss what you have learned from these and how you think it will help you succeed in college and ultimately in your career.

2. Two Letters of Recommendation (PDF)

Your two letters of recommendation must be signed and dated.

- One letter MUST be from an academic advisor who must address your academic performance
- The second letter should be ONE of the following:
 - ✓ A letter regarding your leadership qualities, from a teacher, academic advisor, work or volunteer supervisor
 - ✓ A letter regarding your academic distinction, from a teacher or academic advisor (current college students — the advisor should be from your field of study)
 - ✓ A letter regarding your character, from a teacher, academic advisor, or work or volunteer supervisor

In your application, you will be able to provide the name and email address of two people who will upload the letters of reference on your behalf.

1. First, include the name and email address of your two recommenders in your application (be sure to ask recommenders before providing their information).
2. Then, Greater Horizons will email your recommenders and request that they submit their letters to us directly.

How to Apply

Required Supporting Documents and Guidelines

In addition to the application form, you are required to submit the following supporting documents to be considered for the Huang Leadership Development Scholarship:

3. Official or Unofficial Transcripts of Grades (Submit both PDFs and hard copies)

Upload PDF versions of your transcripts to your online application

Only mail a hard copy if your school will not issue official or unofficial transcripts directly to students. Hard copy transcripts can be mailed to the address below:

Attn: Scholarships – Greater Horizons – 1055 Broadway Blvd. – Suite 130 – Kansas City, MO 64105

If your school provides official electronic transcripts, they can be sent to scholarships@greaterhorizons.org.

Current Graduating High School Seniors

Submit an official or unofficial high school transcript(s) AND unofficial or official college transcript(s), if applicable.

Current College Students

Submit official or unofficial college transcript(s) for all college coursework completed AND official or unofficial high school transcript(s).

Note: Any unofficial transcripts submitted will be reviewed for inconsistencies and an official transcript may be requested at any time for confirmation. All submitted transcripts must include: student's full name, student ID number, name of high school or college, all courses and grades, and cumulative GPA.

International Students

Submit official transcripts from your academic institution — both in their original language and in English (if transcripts were not originally issued in English).

Note: Request your transcripts early, as it may take four to six weeks for these to be generated. Ask your school if they generate electronic official transcripts that can be turned into PDFs. Screen shots or Internet-generated transcripts will not be accepted.

4. Employment Verification (PDF)

An employment verification letter from your supervisor is required. The letter must verify your length of employment at TD SYNEX Corporation or its subsidiaries and must be on official TD SYNEX corporation or its subsidiaries letterhead.

Current Co-workers or Dependents of Co-workers:

Employment verification from a supervisor is required. Provide a letter for you or your parent's length of employment at TD SYNEX Corporation or its subsidiaries.

Past Co-workers or Dependents of Past Co-workers:

Recipients

The scholarship recipients were selected based on academic achievement excellence and leadership qualities as evidenced by their personal statement, letters of reference, school and community activities. Lily and Bob Huang together with TD SYNEX, congratulate the 2022 Huang Scholarship recipients: Krish Askani, Amanda Evans, Hilary He, Grace Mao, Sumedh Shenoy, Haru Tsuchiya and Cindy Zhu.

Krish Askani

Georgia Institute of Technology

Major: Computer Science

Memberships: Shooting Stars Foundation – State President & Lead Organizer, Palm Harbor University High School Robotics Team Captain, Taekwondo Center for Excellence

Krish is a freshman at the Georgia Institute of Technology studying computer science and is the son of Dimple Askani, Sr. Data Analyst at TD SYNEX and Hitesh Askani, Sr Data Engineer at TD SYNEX. He describes himself as outgoing, compassionate, and determined despite being more introverted in his youth preferring to “manipulate pixels on his computer monitor rather than go to a football game”, he shared. “Once I belonged to a community, one that appreciated my electronic endeavors, allowing me to build a social network beyond the world of routers and ethernet cables, my passion for coding was validated.”

He expanded his leadership skills in his role as a mentor in the same digital communities that he learned through running programming hackathons to teaching robotic teams, the same crafts that taught him how to be a team player could be shared with others with the same interests at a young age.

It was his experience within the Shooting Stars Foundation that has been the most valuable to him, “It helped me to implement three characteristics in my personal and academic life – flexibility, forethought, and resourcefulness, important for effective event management projects,” said Krish. He led three academic programs raising over $2,500 for underprivileged students and went on to establish a subsidiary that raised $50,000. This money has been used to provide a higher-level education to underprivileged students across the world, giving them the opportunity to turn their lives around. These experiences taught him that community and the power to connect with others are what drive vision, ideas, and innovation ahead.

Amanda Evans

University of Florida

Major: Business Administration

Memberships: Gamma Phi Beta Sorority, University of Florida Running Club, Enactus – VP of Marketing, Licensed Florida Real Estate Agent

Amanda is the daughter of Keith Robert Evans, Internal Account Rep at TD SYNEX and is currently a Junior at the University of Florida working on a degree in business administration. Amanda is most proud of her position as Financial Vice President of her sorority because it compliments her major in business administration providing her practical skills to use in future internships and careers as well as in her work life as a licensed Florida real estate agent. She is excited to begin her newly elected position as President of her Sorority.

Amanda has achieved strong leadership skills including communication, organization, efficiency, efficacy, accountability, and confidence developed during her high school years as an officer in the National Honor Society, captain of her varsity soccer, cross country, track and lacrosse teams. “I strive to be a leader that sets high standards but is approachable when my peers need my assistance,” she said.

Amanda not only spends her time studying for her degree but also involved in her community Enactus- Roots Project helping to alleviate housing instability in Gainesville through empowerment, mentorship, and providing community resources such as financial advisors, energy-efficient housing tune-ups, and medical assistance

“The biggest life lesson that I have learned is to not underestimate anyone and that if you want something, nothing stands in your way except for yourself.” Said Amanda. As a cross country runner in high school, she strived to have a growth mindset, to learn and grow from her mistakes leading her to be one of her team’s top 5 runners at the state championships, “I no longer underestimate myself or anyone else because I have learned that one can accomplish anything if one puts their mind to it,” she shared.

Hilary He

University of British Columbia, Canada

Major: Business/Commerce

Memberships: Student Council VP, DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America), The Future is Feminist Co-Founder

Hilary is the daughter of Sunny He, Financial/Treasury Analyst; she attended high school at York Mills Collegiate Institute and achieved multiple academic distinction awards due to her dedication to excellence, “I truly prioritize my personal education and well-being along with the environment and community I surround myself in. My long-term goal upon receiving my undergraduate degree is to open a business in the hospitality industry, and to achieve financial stability,” said Hilary

Throughout high school, she was actively showcasing and developing her leadership skills as head of marketing for her school’s Distributive Clubs of America Chapter through a focus on mentoring new members and teaching lessons in a creative way to aid in growing their knowledge in marketing, economics, ethics, finance, and branding. She also participated in the Chinaway volunteer program in Beijing as an English teacher and assisted children in sports activities, exploring nature, archery and even tree-climbing, “I feel a moral duty to contribute to the communities I am a part of,” Hilary explained.

Hilary has learned much about leadership through her involvement in the Founding and leading the Future is Feminist organization and shared, “Throughout my four years in leadership, I have learnt to properly brainstorm, plan, organize, and execute events that raise social awareness for global issues.”

“A life lesson that I have learnt is that interpersonal relationships require a lot of communication and flexibility. The key takeaway is how one goes about solving the issue. With time, better communication, and flexibility, we managed to strengthen and build relationships,” Hilary explained.

Recipients

The scholarship recipients were selected based on academic achievement excellence and leadership qualities as evidenced by their personal statement, letters of reference, school and community activities. Lily and Bob Huang together with TD SYNEX, congratulate the 2022 Huang Scholarship recipients: Krish Askani, Amanda Evans, Hilary He, Grace Mao, Sumedh Shenoy, Haru Tsuchiya and Cindy Zhu.

Grace Mao

University of California, Los Angeles

Major: Computer Science

Memberships: Lead Teacher- introduction to Game Design with Unity, Forum Project for Study Buddy Society

Grace is the daughter of Hua Wang, Quality Engineer at TD SYNEX, and a freshman attending the University of California, Los Angeles with a major in Computer Science. If you ask Grace what led her to be interested in computer science, she will tell you about her eye-opening experience participating in Google's Game Design Challenge. "Twenty-six pages, twelve storyboard sketches later, my game was born. I felt a great sense of accomplishment. Along with my game, my passion for world-building and design also arose," said Grace.

Grace is not afraid of a challenge as proven by her stepping into a leadership role when a college student with web expertise left unexpectedly. She successfully helped her school community by providing a website for communicating with classmates despite no prior experience and walked away with a complete understanding of how great teams work together. She explains, "As the forum manager, I created the content and guides to teach students how to use the forum. Our whole team worked proactively to make sure that the plans from the forum management, marketing, and coding teams aligned well. It is amazing to experience so much support and collaboration with this project; even though it didn't go as smoothly as we hoped, we crossed the roadblock through collaboration and initiative."

Through college and beyond, Grace hopes to use these experiences and future experiences to guide her as a leader, a team member, and as a community member, helping everyone grow together.

Sumedh Shenoy

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Major: Computer Science

Memberships: Lynbrook Math Honor Society, Math Club, Computer Science Club – Co-President/Treasurer

Sumedh is currently studying computer science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is the son of Jayarama Shenoy, VP Technology at Hyve Solutions. Sumedh has been involved in many organizations but feels his participation in Lynbrook's Math Club has been the most meaningful. "I've not only met some of my closest friends, but also been exposed to many different aspects of mathematics that I wouldn't have experienced otherwise. As an officer, I've had a great time showing others the interesting aspects of math that got me hooked, while simultaneously developing as a leader learning how to organize teams for competitions, as well as organize the setup of large-scale competitions at Lynbrook," he explained.

As a nine-year-old, Sumedh thought he would be a fantasy writer however, that dream took a backseat to a growing fascination with math and computer science. Instead, writing became a way to decompress, a mental break from working through an intense stack of math problems. These "breaks" would include daydreaming about miniature stories to accompany the problems he had just solved, a brief reprise from translating mathematical formalisms into plain English; like using chickpeas as the main character in the mathematical challenge.

He realized the power that these small, simple stories could have with his Math Club work teaching math concepts to sixth graders which proved successful in achieving greater engagement and understanding.

"Although my dream of becoming a fantasy writer has wavered, my desire to write stories has not," he said. With stories, I can phrase the often-abstract math and computer science that I know in concrete terms, making them available to a wider audience; and I want to continue using them to spice up explanations, lessons, and questions in the future."

Haru Tsuchiya

University of California, Los Angeles

Major: Biochemistry

Memberships: Vice President of Associated Students of Ohlone College – student government

Haru is the daughter of Fumi Tsuchiya, Senior Tax Analyst at TD SYNEX and studying Biochemistry at the University of California in Los Angeles where she is excited to be learning about the process of conducting research and adapting new laboratory skills. "I want to take my time at the university to delve into the world of research, specifically in genetics, which I am currently taking a biotechnology class focusing on yeast genetics," she explained.

In her role as Vice President of the Associated Students of Ohlone College, Haru oversaw the day-to-day activities of each branch under its student administration of more than 30 members. It was through many experiences with Ohlone that Haru learned the value of curiosity. "I found that as I become more overwhelmed with tasks that I must complete, I forget to stay curious in my studies, with my peers and myself. Each conversation held with a curious approach leads to more genuine conversations that are productive in building a connection which in turn leads to collaboration," she said.

Haru's proudest academic achievement was being recommended to be an organic chemistry tutor. It was through this experience of walking inquisitive students through each chapter she gained a different perspective on organic chemistry. Her long-term goal is to be a physician's assistant where she hopes to also explore different specialties during her career.

Recipients

The scholarship recipients were selected based on academic achievement excellence and leadership qualities as evidenced by their personal statement, letters of reference, school and community activities. Lily and Bob Huang together with TD SYNEX, congratulate the 2022 Huang Scholarship recipients: Krish Askani, Amanda Evans, Hilary He, Grace Mao, Sumedh Shenoy, Haru Tsuchiya and Cindy Zhu.

Cindy Zhu

Harvard University

Major: Economics

Memberships: National Honor Society, Interact Club – President, Cal High Model United Nations Club- Director, Mock Trial Team Captain

Cindy attended California High School in San Ramon and is the daughter of Yipeng Yang, Senior Accountant in California. In the fall she began studying Economics at Harvard University where she hopes to also explore debate organizations on campus where she can enact social change – a topic she is passionate about.

Over the last four years Cindy has achieved many awards including Berkeley Model United Nations Outstanding Delegate, 4x Contra Costa County Mock Trial Champions State Finalist – one of 18 schools in the county chosen and selected to be a presenter at UCSB Gritx Talks 2020 (Groundbreaking Research/Innovative Technologies). During her high school internship at the Asian Pacific Islander Outreach organization, she worked with lawyers to research and create educational workshops and assisted in recruiting $30,000 in grants to organize grassroots advocacy events. "It was through this experience that I discovered that being heard does not mean being acknowledged or even being listened to. Instead, being heard is measured by your effect on the community around you," Cindy shared. This became a new form of expression for her.

Cindy said, "As I continue to examine complex social issues in college and beyond, my ability to build community and leverage collaboration will enable me to create equitable impact". She plans on continuing this research journey by attending law school after she graduates Harvard.

Please join us in congratulating TD SYNEX Corporation's 2022 Huang Leadership Development Scholarship recipients and their parents!
